Updates from SEBI

SEBI provides a new framework for voluntary delisting of non-convertible securities

A listed entity may choose to voluntarily delist¹ its Non-Convertible Securities² (NCS) for various reasons, such as for restructuring the NCS due to financial distress, less number of holders of such instruments, in case of a merger – especially, where the acquiring entity is not listed, etc.

Currently, the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) (Delisting of Equity Shares) Regulations, 2021 provide for voluntary as well as compulsory delisting of specified securities³ in certain cases. However, neither the SEBI (Issue and Listing of Non-Convertible Securities) Regulations, 2021 (NCS Regulations), nor the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015 (LODR Regulations) provide a framework for delisting of NCS.

On 23 August 2023, SEBI issued amendments to the LODR Regulations, thereby inserting a new chapter – Chapter VIA: Framework for voluntary delisting of non-convertible debt securities or non-convertible redeemable preference shares and obligations of the listed entity on such delisting (the amendments).

Applicability

The amendments would be applicable to voluntary delisting of all listed NCS from all or any stock exchanges where such NCS are listed. However, there are certain exceptions, which include:

- NCS that are issued by way of public issue
- Where more than 200 persons (excluding qualified institutional buyers) have invested in that security (ISIN)
- Where NCS have been delisted due to any penalty, redemption or due to any resolution plan under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code.

Procedure for obtaining approval

The amendments have prescribed detailed procedures when making an application for delisting of NCS from all or some of the stock exchanges⁴.

The issuers of the NCS would need to obtain the following approvals within the timelines prescribed in the amendments:

- Approval of the board of directors
- Approval of ALL holders of the NCS
- Approval of the debenture trustee (only in case of non-convertible debt securities)
- Approval from the stock exchange (including the in-principle approval and final approval).

Disclosure of material events

Regulation 51 of the LODR Regulations, requires issuers of NCS to promptly inform the stock exchange and disclose on the website all information having bearing on the performance/operation of the listed entity or which is price sensitive.

¹ Delisting means the permanent removal of securities of an entity from the trading platform of a recognised stock exchange, either voluntarily or compulsorily. Once such securities are delisted, no trading is permitted in such securities on the trading platform of stock exchanges. Delisting assumes significance as it is considered as a permanent loss of investment or divestment opportunity for the investors in such securities.

² Non-convertible securities for the purpose of this amendment would include non-convertible debt securities and non-convertible redeemable preference shares

³ Specified securities includes equity shares and convertible securities.

⁴ It is to be noted, that the process for delisting the NCS completely from all stock exchanges is different as compared to the process adopted for delisting of the NCS from some of the stock exchanges.

The amendments have prescribed that all the events in respect of the proposal of delisting of the NCS, beginning with placing of the agenda for delisting before the board of directors till the delisting is complete would be disclosed as material information under Regulation 51 of the LODR Regulations. The amendments have also prescribed certain information that needs to be disclosed on the website of the issuer of NCS such as:

- The objects and reasons for delisting
- The name of the stock exchange from which the NCS are sought to be delisted
- The cut-off date specified for determining the name of the holders of the NCS to whom notice of delisting has to be sent (and approval of delisting needs to be taken)
- NCS held by related parties or on behalf of the issuer or the related parties and who would not be eligible to vote on the proposal
- Details of compliance officer
- Statements/undertakings by the following:
 - o Board of directors confirming that complete disclosures have been made to the stock exchange, that the entity is compliant with applicable provisions of the security laws and that delisting is in the interest of the holders of NCS
 - o Debenture trustee on adequacy of security cover in case of secured non-convertible debt security
 - o Issuer that they have not paid any incentive to investors or entered into any side agreements with investors with regard to the delisting

Effective date: The amendment came into force from the date of its publication in the Official Gazette, i.e., 23 August 2023.

Reduction of timeline for listing of shares in public issue

Recently, SEBI, vide a circular dated 9 August 2023 reduced the timelines for listing of specified securities in a public issue. As per the circular, the specified securities should be listed after the closure of public issue within three working days (T+3 days) (earlier it was within six working days (T+6 days)). Accordingly, the timelines for various activities involved in the public issue process have also been revised.

The timelines for submission of application, allotment of securities, unblocking of application money and listing should be prominent in the pre-issue, issue opening and issue closing advertisements issued by the issuer for public issues in terms of the SEBI (Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2018 (ICDR Regulations).

Effective date: The provisions of the circular would be applicable as follows:

- On a voluntary basis for public issues opening on or after 1 September 2023, and
- Mandatory for public issues opening on or after 1 December 2023.

Updates from MCA

MCA issues the Companies (Incorporation) Second Amendment Rules, 2023

Companies are required to file Form No. RD-1 for submitting an application to the Central Government (Regional Director) for certain purposes, such as change in the financial year, conversion of public company, rectification of name of a company, etc. Recently, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) issued the Companies (Incorporation) Second Amendment Rules, 2023. Through the amendment, MCA has now substituted Form No. RD-1 by adding more disclosures in the revised Form such as details of the board resolution and special resolution where resolutions for the specific proposal were passed, grounds for making application for the proposed change, details of advertisement, etc.

Effective date: The amendment came into force from the date of its publication in the Official Gazette, i.e., 2 August 2023.

Updates from IASB

Amendments issued to IAS 21

As per the provisions of International Accounting Standard (IAS) 21, The Effects of Changes in Foreign Exchange Rates, a company uses a spot exchange rate when translating a foreign currency transaction.

However, in certain cases it may be possible that one currency cannot be exchanged into another currency. Consequently, market participants are unable to buy and sell currency to meet their needs at the official exchange rate and instead resort to unofficial, parallel markets. In this regard, in August 2023, the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) issued certain amendments to IAS 21. These include:

- A. Assessing exchangeability: IASB has stated that a currency is exchangeable into another currency, when a company is able to exchange that currency for the other currency at the measurement date and for a specified purpose. However, when a currency is not exchangeable, a company should estimate a spot rate.
- B. Estimating spot rate: The amendments contain no specific requirements for estimating a spot rate. Thus, when estimating a spot rate, a company can use:

- An observable exchange rate without adjustment, if that rate meets the estimation objective – i.e., it reflects that, at which rate an orderly exchange transaction would take place at the measurement date between market participants under the prevailing economic conditions, or
 - Another estimation technique, including using rates from exchange transactions in markets or exchange mechanisms that do not create enforceable rights and obligations. However, the technique used should meet the estimation objective.
- C. New disclosure requirements: Under the amendments, companies would need to provide certain new disclosures to help users assess the impact of using an estimated exchange rate on the financial statements. These disclosures include:
- Nature and financial impacts of the currency not being exchangeable
 - Spot exchange rate used
 - The estimation process, and
 - Risks to the company because the currency is not exchangeable.

Effective date: The amendments would apply for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2025. Earlier application is permitted.

Action points for auditors

The amendments have been introduced with an aim to address diversity in accounting practices, in cases where one currency is not exchangeable into another currency. This amendment would be relevant from an IFRS reporting perspective. Thus, auditors should discuss these amendments with the companies and evaluate the impact of new disclosure requirements on the financial statements where such financial statements are prepared under IFRS.

Updates from FASB

FASB issued a new Accounting Standard Update on Joint Venture Formations

The US Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) do not provide any specific authoritative guidance on how a joint venture, upon formation, should recognise and initially measure assets contributed and liabilities assumed. As a result, there is diversity in practice with respect to accounting for the contributions a joint venture receives upon formation. Some joint ventures initially measure their net assets at fair value, while others measure them at the venturers' carrying amounts.

In this regard, recently, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued an Accounting Standards Update (ASU): Business Combinations – Joint Venture Formations (Subtopic 805-60): Recognition and initial measurement to address the aforementioned diversity in accounting. The amendments in the ASU address the accounting for contributions made to a joint venture, upon formation, in a joint venture's separate financial statements.

As per the amendment, a joint venture, upon formation, would apply a new basis of accounting and recognise and initially measure its assets and liabilities at fair value. Further, the ASU requires that a joint venture, upon formation should apply the following key adaptations from the existing guidance on business combinations:

- a. A joint venture is the formation of a new entity without an accounting acquirer: The formation of a joint venture is the creation of a new reporting entity, and none of the assets and/or businesses contributed to the joint venture are viewed as an independent entity, i.e., an accounting acquirer would not be identified
- b. A joint venture measures its identifiable net assets and goodwill, if any, at the formation date: The joint venture formation date is the date on which an entity initially meets the definition of a joint venture
- c. Initial measurement of a joint venture's total net assets is equal to the fair value of 100 per cent of the joint venture's equity: The amendments require that a joint venture measures its total net assets upon formation, as the fair value of the joint venture as a whole, which equals the fair value of 100 per cent of its equity immediately following formation (including any non-controlling interest in the net assets recognised by the joint venture), and
- d. A joint venture provides relevant disclosures: The ASU clarifies that the joint venture disclosure requirements, upon formation are different from the requirements specified in case of business combinations.

Effective date: The amendments are effective prospectively for all the joint venture formations, with a formation date on or after 1 January 2025. Additionally, a joint venture that was formed before 1 January 2025 may elect to apply the amendments retrospectively, if it has sufficient information available. Early adoption is permitted.

Updates from EFRAG

European Sustainability Reporting Standards

In January 2023, the European Union (EU) published the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive (CSRD). The CSRD aims to strengthen the rules regarding social and environmental information that companies have to report on. In this regard, the European Financial Reporting Advisory Group (EFRAG) developed the European Sustainability Reporting Standards (ESRS). The draft standards were introduced in November 2022. Subsequently, on 31 July 2023, the final text of the first set of 12 ESRSs got issued.

The ESRSs are aligned with the reporting areas used in the Task Force on Climate-Related Financial Disclosures (TCFD) recommendations. Further, many disclosure requirements are similar to or based on the recommendations and the standards developed by the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI).

The diagram illustrates the 12 ESRSs issued:

(Source: Foundation for Audit Quality's analysis, 2023 read with the ESRSs issued by the EFRAG in July 2023)

The following points explain some of the key aspects of the ESRs:

- Applicability and effective date: ESRs would be applicable to (group exceptions may apply):
 - a. Large EU companies which on the balance sheet date, exceed two of the following three criteria (including EU and non-EU subsidiaries):
 - 250 employees, or
 - Net revenue of EUR 40 million, or
 - Total assets of EUR 20 million.
 - b. Companies with listed securities on EU-regulated markets (except micro-undertakings), and
 - c. Ultimate non-EU parent companies with a combined group turnover in the EU of more than EUR 150 million.

The ESRs would be applicable w.e.f. 1 January 2024.

However, they would apply in a phased manner, beginning with the Public Interest Entities (PIEs) and companies with listed securities on EU-regulated markets which are large and have more than 500 employees.

- Concept of double materiality: The standards provide that a company should report sustainability matters based on the concept of double materiality. Double materiality refers to two dimensions of materiality – ‘financial’⁵ and ‘impact’⁶. Accordingly, companies are required to perform materiality assessments for both the dimensions. Therefore, a sustainability matter would meet the criterion of double materiality if it is material from either of the dimension.

- Materiality assessment test: One of the important aspects discussed in the standards is w.r.t. materiality assessment test conducted by the companies. It provides that:
 - a. Irrespective of the outcome of the materiality assessment, a company should always disclose the information required by ESR 2
 - b. All other standards and individual disclosure requirements and datapoints would be subject to materiality assessment. But in cases wherein companies conclude that ESR E1 (climate change) is not material, then they should provide a detailed explanation of their conclusion
 - c. In case, a company concludes that a topic other than climate change is not material and omits all the disclosure requirements in the corresponding topical ESR, it may provide a brief explanation of the conclusion of its materiality assessment for that particular topic.
- Reporting boundary: The ESR reporting boundary is based on the financial statements, i.e., the sustainability statement would be prepared for the same reporting company, as the financial statements. Further, while preparing the sustainability statement, companies must identify and report on material impacts, risks and opportunities through their direct and indirect business relationships in the upstream and/or downstream value chain.

⁵ Under the ESRs, financial materiality would require disclosure of sustainability-related matters that (may) trigger material financial effects on a company's development, such as cash flows, financial position or financial performance in the short, medium or long term

⁶ Under the ESRs, impact materiality would require disclosure of sustainability-related matters that relate to a company's material actual or potential, positive or negative impacts on people or the environment over the short, medium, or long term. Materiality would be assessed based on severity and likelihood of the impact.

		Matter for Auditors' attention

- Reporting timelines: It has been specified that companies need to prepare a sustainability statement, including the disclosures required by the ESRs, as part of their management report. The same needs to be published at the same time as the financial statements.
- Assurance: CSRD requires assurance across all the topics in the following manner:
 - FY24 (i.e., reporting in 2025): Limited assurance⁷ for certain large companies
 - FY25 (i.e., reporting in 2026): Limited assurance for other large companies
 - FY26 (i.e., reporting in 2027): Limited assurance for listed Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs).

Further, companies would be required to undertake reasonable assurance⁸ from a future date in a gradual manner.
- Phase-in reliefs: In order to reduce the reporting burden, companies have been provided certain phase-in-reliefs. These are:

A. For Year One (Y1) and Year Two (Y2)

- Comparative information is not required to be disclosed in Y1

- All companies, regardless of their size, may opt out of disclosing the expected financial impacts related to risks from environmental issues in Y1. Companies can provide qualitative disclosure only on these financial impacts for further two years
- Certain disclosures related to own workforce (social protection, people with disabilities, work-related illnesses and work-life balance) could be omitted in Y1
- Companies with less than 750 employees may also omit:
 - a. The disclosure of Scope 3 greenhouse gas emissions (ESRS E1) and other disclosures on their own workforce (ESRS S1) in Y1, and
 - b. The disclosures on biodiversity (ESRS E4), workers in the value chain (ESRS S2), affected communities (ESRS S3) and consumers (ESRS S4) in Y1 and Y2.

B. For Y1, Y2 and Year Three (Y3)

- Other available frameworks could be used to develop relevant disclosures on material sustainability-related matters, in advance of sector-specific standards
- Information on value chain is not required to be estimated and could be omitted, if the information is not available. However, this relief is not applicable to data points relevant for other EU laws or based on internal information, and includes both upstream and downstream information

- Company-specific disclosures developed prior to initial application may continue to be used.

To access the text of the ESRs, please click here

⁷ Limited assurance refers to a level of assurance at an acceptable level, that based on professional judgement, is meaningful for the intended users. It results in a negative conclusion

⁸ Expressing reasonable assurance requires the assurance provider to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to conclude that the sustainability-related information is prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with the applicable reporting criteria. It results in a positive conclusion.

Action points for auditors

- Auditors should engage with the companies, falling within the scope of the ESRS standards and understand how the CSRD reporting requirements would impact them and the group at large. Further, they should also evaluate with the management, how the ESRSs requirements would differ from the current level of sustainability reporting by the companies
- Since ESRSs take into account double-materiality dimensions, it is possible that a particular subject matter/criteria, which may not be material under the extant financial materiality benchmark becomes material under the ESRSs. Thus, auditors should evaluate the impact of double materiality on the sustainability disclosures made by companies under the ESRS framework.
- Practitioners may conduct pre readiness assessment engagements to assess the control environment, data quality and availability of sufficient documentation with the companies in order to provide a limited assurance on the sustainability information.

Accordingly, in August 2023, it issued a consultation paper on review of the framework for borrowings by large corporates and proposed certain key changes. Some of these include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Increase in the threshold of outstanding long-term borrowings• Expansion in definition of outstanding long-term borrowings and incremental borrowings• Removal of requirement of credit rating as a criterion for identifying an entity as a large corporate• Removal of provision for penalty in the event of non-compliance by a large corporate, etc. The comment period ended on 31 August 2023. To access the text of the consultation paper, please click here
